Eligibility	In order to receive benefits you must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have lost employment through no fault of your own • Have enough prior earnings from employment to establish a claim • Be ready, willing and able to work and • Be actively seeking work and keep a record (online or written) of your efforts for each week you claim benefits
Benefit Rate $504 as of 10/7/19	Your benefit rate is how much money you will receive in UI Benefits each week. We mail you a Monetary Benefit Determination after you file your claim. It will tell you if you have enough wages to qualify for benefits and if so, what your weekly benefit rate will be. It will tell you if you do not have enough wages to qualify for benefits. It is not a decision on your eligibility for UI benefits. It shows whether you have enough earnings to qualify.
Establishing a Weekly Benefit Rate	To establish a weekly benefit rate you must meet all three of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You must have worked and been paid wages in jobs covered by Unemployment Insurance two calendar quarters. • For claims filed in 2024, you must have been paid at least $3,300 in wages in one of the calendar quarters (this amount is an increase from $3,100 for claims filed in 2023). • The total wages paid to you must be at least 1.5 times the amount paid to you in your high quarter. Your high quarter is the quarter of your base period in which you were paid the most money. Exception: If your high quarter wages were $11,088 or more, you must have been paid at least $5,544 (half of $11,088) total in the other three quarters of your base period.
How We Calculate Your Weekly Benefit Rate	If you were paid wages in all four quarters of your base period and your high quarter wages are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • More than $3,575: Your benefit amount is your high quarter wages divided by 26. If this calculation is less than $143, your benefit rate is $143. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Example 1: Your high quarter wages are $4,030. Your weekly benefit amount is $155 ($\$4,030 \div 26 = \$155$). ○ Example 2: Your high quarter wages are $3,600. This results in a benefit rate of $138.46 ($\$3,600 \div 26 = \$138.46$). Since this is less than $143, your benefit amount is $143. • $3,575 or less: Your benefit amount is your high quarter wages divided by 25. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Example: Your high quarter wages are $3,450. Your weekly benefit amount is $138 ($\$3,450 \div 25 = \$138$). If you were paid wages in only two or three quarters of your base period and your high quarter wages are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • More than $4,000: Your benefit amount is the average wages of your two highest quarter wages, divided by 26. If this calculation is less than $143, your benefit amount is $143. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Example: Your high quarter wages are $4,500 and your next highest quarter wages are $4,288, an average of $4,394 ($\$4,500 + \$4,288 = \$8,788$; $\$8,788 \div 2 = \$4,394$). Your benefit amount is $169 ($\$4,394 \div 26 = \$169$). • $3,576 to $4,000: Your benefit amount is your high quarter wages divided by 26. If this calculation results in less than $143, your benefit amount is $143. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Example: Your high quarter wages are $3,576. This results in a benefit rate of $137.54 ($\$3,576 \div 26 = \$137.54$.) Since this is less than $143, your benefit amount is $143. • $3,575 or less: Your benefit amount is your high quarter wages divided by 25. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Example: Your high quarter wages are $3,450. Your weekly benefit amount is $138 ($\$3450 \div 25 = \$138$).

Understanding Your “Base Period”

Your weekly Unemployment Insurance benefit payment amount depends on how much you were paid during a “base period.” A base period represents one year of your work and wages (four calendar quarters). Calendar quarters are three-month blocks of time shown in the chart below. Wages earned in your base period are used to calculate your benefit rate. Your benefit rate is the amount of money you receive if you are eligible for a full week of Unemployment Insurance benefits.

There are two types of base periods shown in the chart below. The Basic Base Period is the first four of the last five completed calendar quarters before the quarter in which you file for benefits. If you have enough wages in your Basic Base Period, we use it when we calculate your benefit payment.

If you do not have enough wages in your Basic Base Period, we use your Alternate Base Period to calculate your benefit payment. The Alternate Base Period is the last four completed calendar quarters before the quarter in which you file for benefits. Important: If you have enough wages in your Basic Base Period, we do not automatically check to see if your benefit rate would be higher if your Alternate Base Period is used instead. If you think your benefit payment would be higher using your Alternate Base Period, you can ask us to use your Alternate Base Period to calculate your benefit amount. However, if you choose to use the Alternate Quarter wages for your current claim, you cannot use these wages again in the future. This may affect your ability to qualify for a future claim.

For all base periods, the quarter in which you file for benefits does not count as part of your base period. This means that wages earned during the quarter you filed will not be used to calculate your benefit rate.

How Base Period Works (Example only. Your actual quarters may differ from those shown.)

-----Previous Year -----				----- Current Year -----
1st Quarter January 1 - March 31	2nd Quarter April 1 - June 30	3rd Quarter July 1 - September 30	4th Quarter October 1 - December 31	5th Quarter January 1 - March 31	Quarter you filed for benefits April 1 - June 30
Basic Base Period Wages paid to you during these four quarters make up your Basic Base Period.
Alternate Base Period Wages paid to you during these four quarters make up your Alternate Base Period.

Example:

5/2 = Last day of work

5/5 = Claim effective date – A claim is effective the Monday of the week the claim was filed.

An unemployment week is a Monday through Sunday period. Benefit credit for the unpaid waiting period may be claimed as early as the following Wednesday. Remaining weeks may be claimed as early as the Sunday the unemployment week ends.
