

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Dennis Lantry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:33:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ricky Prosen

[Redacted signature block]

September 13, 2024

Apprenticeship Training Program Office
NYS Department of Labor
W. Averell Harriman State Office Campus
Building 12, Room 459
Albany, NY 12240

Re: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program

My name is Eugene Bailey. I am writing to you regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group ("PandCG"), 96 West River Rd., Scottsville, New York. As a journeyman lineman, I strongly oppose this contractor being granted status to be a sponsor of the Outside (Electrical) Line Worker program for the reasons I will explain below. But, before I do, I would like to give you some background on my career.

I started as an outside electrical line worker apprentice through the NJATC in 1998 and graduated as a journeyman lineman in June of 2001. The first project I worked on was for seven months, 5½ hours from home, performing traffic signal and street lighting. I was then transferred to Rochester, New York where I finished my apprenticeship. Throughout the next 35 months I was exposed to and performed the following types of work: substations, underground and overhead transmission, and energized distribution. I have worked on the properties of every major utility company in New York State performing this work, including many out-of-state utility companies on storm restoration. I cannot express to you enough how important it was for me to be provided the on-the-job ("OTJ") training. It is, by far, the most important part of being an apprentice to becoming a journeyman lineman.

For the past 11 years I have traveled New York State monitoring projects like the ones I mentioned above and speaking with workers who are interested in following the same career path as I have. I can personally tell you throughout my experience of working in this trade that PandCG is completely unable to provide any outside electrical line worker apprentice the OTJ training that is necessary and required to produce a qualified journeyman lineman. This simply is because they do not perform nearly enough of the work required to do so, nor do they have the qualified personnel to provide this training. You will receive letters from individuals that were past employees of PandCG that will demonstrate this.

According to the national lineman survey and utility company data, over the past decade, an average of 26 linemen lose their lives every year due to fatal work injuries. The fatality rate for linemen is more than 12 times the average for all workers and nearly 400% higher than the national average for all occupations. In my opinion it would be a disservice to those that have lost their lives on the job and to those that continue to put their lives at risk every day to keep our power grid up and running safely to allow PandCG to sponsor an apprenticeship program. I have witnessed these types of accidents and have been to many viewing hours and cemeteries where my fallen friends and brothers were laid to rest while standing next to their mourning families. PandCG would make a mockery of the Department's process of certifying an approved apprenticeship program.

I am respectfully asking that the Department perform a vigorous job audit of this contractor and reach out to New York State utility companies to determine if this contractor performs energized distribution or transmission work on any regular basis. You will see that they perform gas, civil, traffic signal and street lighting, sand and gravel, trucking services and yes, some underground distribution. But, for the Company to contend that they perform energized distribution, substation or transmission work on a regular basis or that they have qualified personnel to give OTJ training to an apprentice is simply untrue. I reviewed the PandCG website since 2007. There has not been one job posting for an outside electrical line worker. I have attached my findings.

Lastly, it is my opinion that this contractor has only applied for this program so they can pay apprenticeship wages, not because they want to produce highly skilled and qualified line workers for the future. Please do not support or unknowingly be a participant in this fraud. This will put lives at risk.

Sincerely,

Eugene Bailey (redacting my name is not necessary)

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 2:20:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Madelyn Eagen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:15:55 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cannot Phillips

[Redacted signature block]

NEW YORK STATE ASSOCIATION OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS

ORGANIZED JUNE 26, 1915

Affiliated with

NEW YORK STATE AFL/CIO
NEW YORK STATE BUILDING TRADE

Jeffrey Sondervan, President
595 Blossom Road, #303
Rochester, NY 14610
jsondervan@ibew36.org

Ernie Hartman, I.R.
Secretary/Treasurer
601 County Rd. 64
Elmira, NY 14901
Ernie_hartman@ibew.org

September 13, 2024

VIA EMAIL

Apprenticeship Training Program Office
NYS Department of Labor
W. Averell Harriman State Office Campus
Building 12, Room 459
Albany, NY 12240

Re: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program

To Whom it May Concern:

The purpose of this letter is to provide you with information on Power & Construction Group, Inc.'s application to become a sponsor of an Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program. I submit this comment as the Legislative Counsel on behalf of the New York State Association of Electrical Workers (NYSAEW) and ask you to consider it as you review Power & Construction Group, Inc.'s application.

It is NYSAEW's position that the Department of Labor should not grant approval to the Power & Construction Group, Inc. application to become a sponsor of the proposed apprenticeship program. Electrical (outside) Line Worker apprentices are required to receive minimum training in numerous distinctive work processes as follows:

Category	Approximate Hours
A. Tools, Equipment and Safety	400
B. Set Towers, Poles and Construction of Other Devices to Hold Electrical Wiring	2,000
C. Establishing Work Position for Maintenance and Repairing Overhead Distribution of Transmission Lines	300
D. Stringing New Wire or Maintenance of Old Wire	1,000

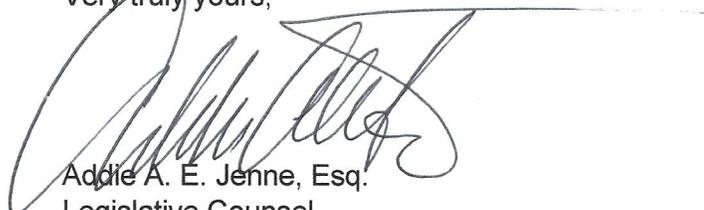

E. Installation and Maintenance of Insulators	300
F. Installation and Maintenance of Transformers and Other Equipment	1,000
G. Installation, Repair and Maintenance of Underground Electrical Distribution Systems	1,000
H. Assembly and Erection of Substation	300
I. Installation, Maintenance and Repair of Traffic or Train Signals and Outdoor Lighting	500
J. Trimming Tree	200
Total:	7,000

Power & Construction Group, Inc. does not perform much of the work that would be needed to train an apprentice so that they could potentially meet the required hours of work in each category. For example, Power & Construction Group, Inc. does not perform any work on energized distribution systems for utility companies or municipalities, or any substation work, or any overhead or underground transmission work. NYSAEW representatives have personally conferred with various utilities that operate in Upstate New York - in the area where Power & Construction Group, Inc. operates, and they have each state that they have not worked with the company. Rather, Power & Construction Group, Inc. workers primarily work on traffic signals and streeting lighting.

Given the work performed by Power & Construction Group, Inc., it would be impossible for these proposed apprentices to receive the 7,000 hours of training in the various categories within 42 months. NYSAEW respectfully requests that the Department take the information provided herein into account when you review the qualification for this proposed apprenticeship program. We submit that upon review of the information provided in this comment that the Department should not certify this proposed apprenticeship program.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. I can be reached by phone at 315-955-4667 and by email at AddieJenneLaw@gmail.com.

Very truly yours,

Addie A. E. Jenne, Esq.
Legislative Counsel
New York State Association of Electrical Workers

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:02:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Keegan Walczak

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:14:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Melinda Lamb

[Redacted signature block]

NORTHEASTERN JOINT APPRENTICESHIP AND TRAINING
1513 Ben Franklin Highway • Douglassville, PA 19518-1939
TEL. 610-326-2860 • FAX 610-326-2924 • www.neat1968.org

September 12, 2024

Re: Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to express our organization's strong opposition to Power and Construction Group's application to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a representative of the Northeastern Joint Apprenticeship and Training Program, I believe that granting them this status would be detrimental to the integrity of the safety and training of the outside electrical construction industry.

Our organization has provided training and education to the outside electrical construction industry since 1968 and we fully understand as well as anyone the critical nature of training skilled outside electrical apprentices. Each year, we invest millions of dollars in safety, equipment, and training, ensuring our apprentices develop into highly qualified Journeyman Linemen—professionals essential to maintaining New York's power infrastructure. Allowing a company that does not consistently perform outside electrical work to sponsor an apprenticeship program would undermine the standards that safeguard this industry.

Our apprentices regularly work on energized distribution and transmission lines, performing tasks such as setting towers and poles, maintaining overhead transmission lines, stringing wire, installing insulators, transformers, and maintaining street lighting, traffic signals, substations, and switching yards. This diverse fieldwork combined with the educational curriculum and the hands-on practical training performed at our facilities is crucial to developing the skills necessary to become safe, qualified linemen.

I respectfully request the Department of Labor conduct a thorough review of Power and Construction Group's educational curriculum and practical training program. It is our firm belief that they neither perform the necessary training nor have personnel that are qualified to do so. Approving their sponsorship would compromise the safety and quality of the outside electrical construction industry.

We urge the DOL to protect the integrity of the apprenticeship program and ensure only qualified educational programs are entrusted with training the next generation of line workers.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Regards,

Jason Lauze
Executive Director

NEW YORK STATE --- LINEMAN'S SAFETY TRAINING FUND

LOCAL 1249

September 13, 2024

RE: Apprenticeship application opposition-Power and Construction Group

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to express our opposition for the contractor Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor for the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. The New York State Lineman's Safety Training Fund has for over 70 years assisted true outside electrical line contractors perform training in work methods and safety performances that is needed to perform outside line construction safely and efficiently. We know exactly what is required to be a qualified electrical line worker.

The scope of work performed by outside line construction contractors includes transmission, distribution, substation work, traffic signal and street light work. In these work disciplines, the line workers are setting steel towers and structures, setting wood poles in energized primary voltage, re-stringing energized conductors, wiring and working on transformers in energized conditions, performing maintenance on insulators, structures and equipment in energized conditions. These are just some of the tasks performed by a qualified journeyman lineman on a daily basis. An apprentice for the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship MUST be able to have vast on the job training in these tasks to learn this dangerous work.

By performing an expensive review of the work being performed by Power and Construction, I am certain that the DOL will find that Power and Construction Group does NOT perform much of the work necessary to give a worker the experience required. For a worker to be classified as a Journeyman Lineman there is no room for skipping any of the above noted scopes and tasks. To allow for the Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor for the Outside Electrical Line Worker Apprenticeship would be dangerous to the industry and a disservice to the so called "apprentice" that would then be employed Power and Construction Group. The "apprentice" could potentially, inappropriately obtain a classification of Journeyman Lineman. Having that classification comes with the expectation that he/she has a full understanding of how to perform work safely in ALL aspects of outside line construction. Without having that knowledge and experience could put that worker and other workers at risk. I ask that the DOL considers this heavily while evaluating this application for apprenticeship by Power and Construction Group. The New York State Lineman's Safety Training Fund strongly opposes this application.

Respectfully Submitted,

Dan Pollock-Director of Safety and Training-Journeyman Lineman

New York State Lineman's Safety Training Fund

8531 Brewerton Road

Suite 3

Cicero, New York 13039

Office: (315) 656-8386

Fax: (315) 656-8055

Dan Pollock
Safety Director

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:52:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a contractor in the outside electrical industry, our company strongly opposes Power and Construction Group being given this status.

We perform every type of work in the outside electrical industry for major utilities and municipalities. We understand the importance of the training of an outside electrical apprentice. Our company spends millions of dollars every year to provide safe working conditions, the equipment and the training which ultimately produces highly qualified Journeyman Lineman that are necessary to provide power to New York. It would be a disservice to employers that follow the program's work processes to allow an employer that does not perform the work of an outside electrical contractor to have a registered apprenticeship program.

Many of our employees work daily on energized distribution and transmission lines performing the following task: setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution of transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment, traffic signal and street lighting, substations and switching yards. All of this provides the on-the-job training for the apprentices we have working for us.

We are asking the DOL to do an extensive review of the Power and Construction Group's daily work processes in the field. We believe that they do not perform all the work necessary to have an apprenticeship program as required by the DOL. We also do not believe they have the qualified personnel to give the on-the-job training to any apprentice so that they could become a qualified Journeyman Lineman. Please help us keep the outside electrical industry safe by not allowing Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of this program.

Thank you for your time.

Dennis Kelly
Journeyman Lineman
Owner/Founder
KRutilities
Signatory Local 1249 IBEW contractor

Sent from my iPhone

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:00:09 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lucas De Graff

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 5:56:13 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a contractor in the outside electrical industry, our company strongly opposes Power and Construction Group being given this status.

We perform every type of work in the outside electrical industry for major utilities, cooperatives, and municipalities. We understand the importance of the training of an outside electrical apprentice. Our company spends millions of dollars every year to provide safe working conditions, the equipment and the training which ultimately produces highly qualified Journeyman Lineman that are necessary to provide power to New York. It would be a disservice to employers that follow the program's work processes to allow an employer that does not perform the work of an outside electrical contractor to have a registered apprenticeship program.

Many of our employees work daily on energized distribution and transmission lines performing the following task: setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution of transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment, traffic signal and street lighting, substations and switching yards. All of this provides the on-the-job training for the apprentices we have working for us.

We are asking the DOL to do an extensive review of the Power and Construction Group's daily work processes in the field. We believe that they do not perform all the work necessary to have an apprenticeship program as required by the DOL. We also do not believe they have the qualified personnel to give the on-the-job training to any apprentice so that they could become a qualified Journeyman Lineman. Please help us keep the outside electrical industry safe by not allowing Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of this program.

Thank you for your time.

Brett Frankart
President/Owner
Office: 567-938-8090
[REDACTED]
Fax: 567-938-8067

Frankart Power Line Services LLC

A Lineman Owned Company

1650 S. Township Rd. 1186

Tiffin, Ohio 44883

www.FrankartPowerLine.com

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:03:02 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Noah Smith

[Redacted signature block]

September 13, 2024

Line Division

- o Electrical construction services
- o Design/Build
- o Communications
- o High Voltage Installations

To: Apprenticeship Training Program Office
NYS Department of Labor
W. Averell Harriman State Office Campus
Building 12, Room 459
Albany, NY 12240

Re: Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to express our company's strong opposition to Power and Construction Group's application to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a New York based electrical contractor that has been deeply involved in all aspects of the electrical industry for over 85 years, we believe granting P&CG this status would largely have a negative impact on the overall program.

Our company provides comprehensive services in the outside electrical industry for a multitude of diverse customers, including major utility companies, municipalities, commercial and industrial business, etc. We have a deep understanding of the time, experience, and training required to develop and maintain a highly skilled, professional and safe workforce in the outside electrical industry, and we heavily invest resources each year to ensure that these requirements are met and that a consistently high standard is upheld.

Our employees regularly perform work on energized distribution and transmission lines, inside substations, and on network underground circuits as well as on many other project types. For an apprentice to achieve journeyman lineman status they must spend a specified amount of time performing this work in the field under guidance from experienced journeymen. This on-the-job training is critical for the development of skilled linemen.

We respectfully request that the Department of Labor conduct a thorough review of Power and Construction Group's body of work. It is our belief that they neither consistently nor competently perform the array of work mentioned above nor do they employ the qualified personnel to safely and effectively administer the level of on-the-job training which is required to produce skilled and safe journeyman linemen.

We urge the Department of Labor to protect the integrity of the apprenticeship program and ensure that only qualified contractors are entrusted with training the next generator of line workers. Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,

Benjamin D. Muck

Line Division Manager

Ferguson Electric

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:09:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Angela Faulise

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:24:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Daniel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:35:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

lil Robert Lehman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:37:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chad Sinclair

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:11:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Mulkern

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:09:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Evan Nugent

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:03:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Dorvit

[Redacted signature block]

From:

Subject:

Date:

RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Friday, September 6, 2024 8:33:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Michael Griggs

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:03:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lane Campbell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:42:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kyle Gorman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:57:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shayla Gaffney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 2:16:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Josh Higgins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:53:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Hawthorne

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:55:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jake Warner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:18:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Erich Donato

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:55:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

william schreader

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:57:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brendan Doyle

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:59:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jack Bushnell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:58:17 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bryan Caudill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:54:50 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rob Jendrysek

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:53:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Yarnes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:17:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Will Hall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:54:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zoe Kendrick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:55:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bridget Willadsen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:57:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mandie Savage

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:31:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Treat

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:51:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Sorbara

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:46:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andy Reilly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:54:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jim Andrews

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:00:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Dawson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:05:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Donald Guize

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:01:07 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Spada

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:06:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas DeMita

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:06:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joe McCrone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:52:50 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Hoolihan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:57 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mackenzie Riester

A black rectangular redaction box covering the signature area, consisting of three stacked horizontal bars of varying lengths.

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Jennifer Geracitano

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:47 AM

You don't often get email from tchabot@fergusonelectric.com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Theresa Chabot

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:34 AM

You don't often get email from sdeoca@fergusonelectric.com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shannon DeOca

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:45:10 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Duane Bliss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Daniel Colvin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:47:03 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mike Michael McCumiskey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:31 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Vincent Zappia

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:48:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Liska

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:43:08 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Dornan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:46:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Potts

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:38:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Axl Jakubowski

[Redacted signature block]

From:

abor.sm.apprenticeship.training

Subject:

RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program

Date:

Monday, September 9, 2024 12:12:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Nugent

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:52:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Russell Hamlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:26:00 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Roland

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:09:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jacob Adkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:48:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Fletcher Ace

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:06:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Thygesen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:02:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew McCoubrey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:01:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sherry Malik

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:05:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Wayne Forster

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:53:57 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Douglas Brooks

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:35:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Caleb krebs Caleb Krebs

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:56:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jim MacDuffee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:52:39 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Wesley Forshee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:54:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:25 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:00:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Baker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:04:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James Puchlerz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:05:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Baker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:45:52 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Sterling

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:53:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jay Pinkert

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:03:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Randy Angerosa

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:06:07 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Aaron Georger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:30:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Brenda Laverdi

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:09:54 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Angela Faulise

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:09:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Evan Nugent

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:11:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Mulkern

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:53:21 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Muck

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:41:28 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Campbell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED] m
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:30:26 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Szelazkiewicz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:59:20 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Beard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:57:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mandie Savage

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:55:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bridget Willadsen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:03:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Dorvit

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:00:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Dawson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:57:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brendan Doyle

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:31:13 PM

You don't often get email from adam [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Treat

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:54:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jim Andrews

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:17:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Will Hall

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:55:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

william schreader

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:05:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Donald Guize

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:54:50 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rob Jendrysek

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:58:17 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bryan Caudill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:01:07 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Spada

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:53:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Yarnes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:59:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jack Bushnell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:51:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Sorbara

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:54:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zoe Kendrick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:46:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andy Reilly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:06:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas DeMita

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:31 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Vincent Zappia

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:47:03 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mike Michael McCumiskey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Daniel Colvin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:49:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Jennifer Geracitano

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:45:10 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Duane Bliss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:43:08 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Dornan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:48:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Liska

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:46:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Potts

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:12:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Nugent

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:06:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joe McCrone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Theresa Chabot

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:57 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mackenzie Riester

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:52:50 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Hoolihan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:52:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Russell Hamlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:51:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shannon DeOca

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:54:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:56:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jim MacDuffee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:05:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Wayne Forster

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:25 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:52:39 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Wesley Forshee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:35:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Caleb krebs Caleb Krebs

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:38:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Axl Jakubowski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:26:00 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Roland

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 11:01:45 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sherry Malik

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:02:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew McCoubrey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:06:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Thygesen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 9:59:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:09:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jacob Adkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticesh@training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 10:48:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Fletcher Ace

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:06:07 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Aaron Georger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:03:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Randy Angerosa

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 8:30:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Brenda Laverdi

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:53:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jay Pinkert

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:42:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kyle Gorman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 2:16:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Josh Higgins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:53:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Hawthorne

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:41:28 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Campbell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:04:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James Puchlerz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:30:26 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Szelazkiewicz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:24:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Daniel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:37:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chad Sinclair

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:59:20 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Beard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:00:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Baker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:05:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Baker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 7:45:52 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Sterling

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:53:21 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Muck

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:35:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

lil Robert Lehman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 1:08:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lance Plonski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:54:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tirso Beltran

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:03:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Lilley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:00:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:49:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brad Watring

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:24:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James McKenna

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:15:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Kuhlman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:12:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Roger Orfield

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:46:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Campbell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:30:39 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sean Sweeney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 11:04:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Daniel Perrotto

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:50:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cannon Ray

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 11:04:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Daniel Perrotto

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:34:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jacob Brown

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:46:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ray Campbell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:10:15 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Patrick Martin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:15:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Borel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:44:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Noblitt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:10:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Clint Morrison

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:13:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Rebecca Roffe

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:53:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Erica Roberts

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:10:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jose Rangel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:01:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Vogelmeier

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:05:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Steve Turner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:00:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathan Morris

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 9:44:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]@ [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Abbate

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:08:44 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Adkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:26:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lane Bouchey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:19:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan L

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:19:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patrick March

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:27:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cody Nicklow

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:22:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Tyburczy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 8:32:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeff craig

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 10:10:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin McCaffrey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:54:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Ritchie

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:01:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

William Hudson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:00:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Hudson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:00:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Holcomb

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:58:48 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Avery Cook

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:40:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Yoder

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:20:19 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Boone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:35:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Guy Cacace

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:40:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Liam Harrington

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:56:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Christian Steel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:45:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stu Brabaw

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:33:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Andrew Ricciardi

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:56:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matt Davis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:31:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Vogel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:17:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Kasinger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 7:31:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tiler Eaton

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:51:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jason Davis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:46:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cody Shieldss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:40:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mathew Runyon

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:53:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Oscar Sanchez

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:55:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James Barbee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:52:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

KJ Frost

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:51:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Walkup

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:43:59 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Alex Kamau

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:54:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kevin Hayes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:49:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Waters

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:48:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Murray

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:40:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Weiss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:49:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jeffers

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:56:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brenden Melanson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:48:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jake Donaldson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:14:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Corbin Rittle

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 6:26:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Marek

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:27:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jordan Surprenant

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 5:52:16 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tonya Forshier

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 4:59:59 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Gedamoske

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:24:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Nolan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:30:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Vazquez-Barry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 4:47:22 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ben Peak

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:37:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Lazon

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:39:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chuck Glover

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:35:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Gregory Bly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:39:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Clint Carver

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:40:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Logan Luce

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:34:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jonathan Thompson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Sunday, September 8, 2024 6:34:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ethan Kosiara

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 2:04:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nichole Irving

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 2:04:46 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nichole Irving

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 4:01:07 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Thielk

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 4:27:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Edwards

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:44:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dr. Emily Teneyck

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:35:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alexander Morgan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:00:04 PM

You don't often get email from cdeyear35@gmail.com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Christina DeYear

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:54:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:47:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Susan Stone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:49:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Almonte

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:35:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Matthew Mixon

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:42:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hunter Loomis

2856 State Route 38a

Moravia, NY

13118

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:33:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Taylor Hollock

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:33:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

jill malenick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:05:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Andrews

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:01:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

adam saville

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Monday, September 9, 2024 12:40:17 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Heath Sanders

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:33:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tracy Mineo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:00:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kaitlin Klastow

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:08:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jarod S

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:04:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dominic Schupp

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:04:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeremie Pearson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:07:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cody Stone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:58:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tanner Uppstrom

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:20:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Tyne Banks

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:06:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Kimberly Schneider

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:31:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jaden MacRabie

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:32:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Noah Morhiser

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:18:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Dennis Ruvola

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:13:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Mary Herbst

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:10:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kacie Miner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:09:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Heise

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:16:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

francis odonnell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:09:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Jessica Mallabar

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:53:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joy Reifsteck

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:49:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dan Pollock

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:47:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Dalton

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:47:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lucas Riester

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:45:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Vincent Perrello

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:46:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Neal Russo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:47:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sean Porter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:47:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Pierce

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:47:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Martin Homick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:53:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Dustin Woodard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:02:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rachelle Pearson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:53:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Yencer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:56:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Kroboth

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:53:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Seth Greene

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:53:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:44:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Coutermarsh

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:43:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alexander Wall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:45:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Nesci

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:43:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Craig Sherin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Darryl Mack

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tanner Irwin

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:36:03 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Alexander Heil

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:38:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Julie Sherin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:39:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric Harrison

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:36:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Shutter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:39:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patricia Siegard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patrick Durkin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jarred Calice

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric J Harrison

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:38:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Josh Mallabar

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:39:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Paige Malenick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:37:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:39:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rocco Russo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:38:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Fanelli

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:29:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James Holt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:30:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Ball

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:33:46 PM

You don't often get email from max [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Max Poehlman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:33:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shadrick Law

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:33:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Patricia Jordan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:27:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alfonso Gallo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:27:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lane Bouchey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:27:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jared Bretherton

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:28:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Bailey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:29:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Bailey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:32:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Steven Rippey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:31:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tarchand Madhoo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:31:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Aspinwall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:31:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rafael Cordero

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:32:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Olivia Schneider

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:22:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Huntley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:23:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Edward Love

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:21:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Huntley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:21:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jake Falgiatano

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:22:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Treen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:21:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ronald Colvin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:27:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Urban

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Neuley Bissonette

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:26:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Christopher Bailey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:24:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Shepherd

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:26:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Todd Szczepaniak

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:20:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Grant Bucktooth

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:24:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Mastine

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:26:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan Myers

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:25:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Hawkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:58:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Ryan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:03:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

William Hansbury

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:06:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dan Fischer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:07:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ryan Holsopple

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:08:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathan Parkman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:52:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brandon Faiola

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:16:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Adams

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:42:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Justin Abrams

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:44:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Bacchi

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:07:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ryan Holsopple

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:57:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Kyle Kropog

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:58:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Ryan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:50:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Gregory Gross

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:26:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Sylvester Stachurski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:03:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

William Hansbury

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:54:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brittany Cochran

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:06:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dan Fischer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:30:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Given

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:08:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathan Parkman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:27:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chaz Beckner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:56:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Deivy Tauzard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:52:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Marissa Stagnaro

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:05:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Cunningham

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:40:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zach McGee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:00:47 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Locklin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:47:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Claude Venne
5323 Jillian Ln
Brewerton , NY
13029

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:58:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bailey Wills

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:37:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Amanda Russo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:21:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Trevor Hess

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:38:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brandon Dugo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:05:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Timothy Leffew

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:12:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Johnny Shafer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:10:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nick Augustine

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:19:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rylie Russo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:16:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Justin Guerrero

A redacted signature block consisting of three black rectangular bars of varying lengths, obscuring the name and contact information of the sender.

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:18:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Aaron LaRock

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:17:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Patrick Kaufmann

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:14:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sean White

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:14:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Craig Lewis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:14:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Bluemer
111 Fayette rd
Massena, NY
13662

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:16:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Calabrese

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED] m
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:17:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Katelynn Bush

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:17:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Miller

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:32:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Zach Schneider

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stephen Kaufmann

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:22:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Camden Pruiksma

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:11:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James O'Reilly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:12:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Hayes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kim Gurda

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Casey Kelly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:11:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jack Fraser

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:11:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Frank Muia

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:12:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

logan cozzolino

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:11:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Becker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:06:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ryan Holsopple

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:04:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Stelmaszyk

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:07:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr David Jorgensen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:07:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

William chaffinch

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:00:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr James Mccraney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:00:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Steve Gajan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:04:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matt Cameron

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:06:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eugene Lundfelt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:01:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Randy Fletcher

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:06:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nate Brown

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:03:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hunter Montieth

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:02:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Busa

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:08:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Colby Woodward

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:06:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matt Bristol

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:10:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Frigon

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:51:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brandon Barry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:49:55 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Merritt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:52:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Wheeler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:59:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonas Escudero

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:58:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Curtis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:35:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lucas Noftsier

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:55:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Christopher Conners

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:55:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Cooke

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:56:44 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Hooley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:55:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Dominic Tomao

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:54:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stephen Nichols

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:57:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Landon Travers

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:56:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Christopher

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:57:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Janett Banegas

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:58:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tanner Phippen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:24:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Huizinga

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:43:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Forshier

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:36:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jill Luden

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED] m
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:23:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Huizinga

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:22:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas Knapp

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:21:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Lindmeier

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:27:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Michael Haines

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 4:25:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jared Maker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:30:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Roy Ochoa

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:48:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kendall Carson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:03:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Emily Jackson

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:46:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew Luden

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:46:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Takota Jacobson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 4:53:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kadrina Scouten

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:59:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Arin Drury

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:20:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jamie Meyer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:29:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Dingman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:17:22 PM

You don't often get email from jakeblackman21@gmail.com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Blackman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:10:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Beth Foster

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:22:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr EMMETT McNabb

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:38:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Murray

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:25:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Rebecca Bristol

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:15:55 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cannot Phillips

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:33:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Peggy Hennen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:45:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Wheeler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:56:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Jackson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:39:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lauren Szarek

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:43:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Kathleen Murphy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:42:55 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jack Pidlypchak

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:00:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Robin Smith

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:43:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Kathleen Murphy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:18:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

cassie davis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 2:03:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hiemenz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:57:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Reff

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:45:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kiera Graves

From: [REDACTED]
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:37:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Mike Prior

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:47:59 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Gravlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:50:29 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Shawn Hunt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:43:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Smith

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:25:10 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Brad Theobald

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:26:27 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Kacey Theobald

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:29:02 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Claire Biel

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:30:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Meghan Moore

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:24:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Foltz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:24:14 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Grady McCumiskey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:16:32 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Samantha Russell

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:20:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mary May

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:58:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. William Keiffer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:04:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dana Warren

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:48:33 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patrick Sierzenga

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:47:28 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Kevin Putney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:55:59 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Boike

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:49:19 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Carpenter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:45:08 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shawn Lantry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:41:01 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alex Fogle

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:40:13 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Lesley Collins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:04:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Haven Weese

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:35:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Anthony Trusello

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:05:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Ambuske

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:12:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

charles brigham

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:10:53 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Hopkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 11:10:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tonya Snoddy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:36:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Gregory Weese

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:35:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Gregory Weese

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:34:13 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Meghan Casino

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:35:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stephan McLoughlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:28:08 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

mrs megan proulx

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:30:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

mr & mrs kyle proulx

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:01:29 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Lindsey Mason

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:11:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Frost

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:05:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

samantha stewart

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:44:15 AM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ashley Vasile

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:13:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Fogel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:39:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Pagano

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:47:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

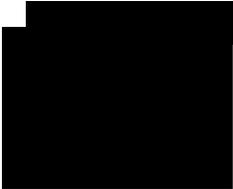

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Paul Richards

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:05:03 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan Green

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:39:07 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Collins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 1:07:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Joshua Eastburn

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:27:09 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Nicholas Guercio

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:35:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Theetge

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:47:39 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mathew Clancy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:39:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stevie Lombardoni

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 10:12:44 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kim Jones

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:18:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Syles Bakker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:07:09 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Debbie Burrous

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:15:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brandon Barry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:03:43 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zebulon Meyer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:23:29 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tim Bashaw

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:19:17 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline May

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:19:38 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Syles Bakker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:25:06 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tim Bashaw

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:27:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

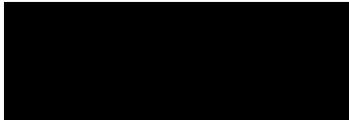

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Karl Klastow

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:27:16 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Me. Joseph Klees

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:50:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Craig Knobel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:09:54 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kelley Shellhammer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:28:21 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Larry Sisson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:06:06 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Timothy McCumiskey

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 9:28:12 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brittany Jorgensen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:47:02 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Gadway

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:41:33 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeremiah Johnson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:45:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dan Grundman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:41:28 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Wes Randall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:45:31 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Craig Changelo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:38:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Terri Rider

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:32:04 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shane Barrett

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:38:55 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Cory Knapp

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:34:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

MR Daniel T Hill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:39:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Cook

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:24:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Green

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:26:37 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Barrett

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:27:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Robert Whittaker

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:28:33 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tom Coe

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:47:24 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Fox

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:19:18 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Christopher Stolz Christopher Stolz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:12:20 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Corey Reff

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:16:12 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Travis clagett

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:17:40 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Quin Butler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:04:27 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Riester

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:09:53 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Reff

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:46:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Gore

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:09:11 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Rumble

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:00:10 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Jacobi

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:44:13 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ben Peak

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:09:55 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Savannah Kennedy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:03:11 AM

You don't often get email from ml [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Ruminski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:04:07 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Melody Falcone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:11:39 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Stewart

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:07:35 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dillon Bentley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:08:56 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dennis Kelly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:39:34 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Stenzel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:54:59 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galvin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:04:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Giacomo Tallarida

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:04:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Nicholas Ahearn

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:04:55 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Gebicke

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:12:50 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Gwen Vant

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:07:43 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Deb Mann

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:39:32 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Gina Johnson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:30:49 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Katie Hayes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:34:19 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Connor Murphy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:34:09 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jarrett Hayes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:37:48 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jr Darrin Guernsey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:28:19 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Colby Woodward

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:33:12 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sean Darlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:51:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

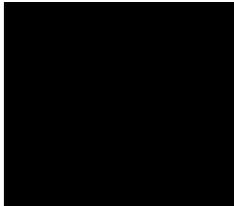

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hope Shumway

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:04:27 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Clark

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:59:00 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Laisdell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 7:23:58 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Catherine Conzone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:17:05 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

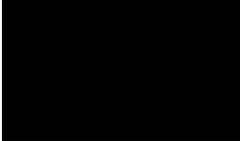

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hunter Crick

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:57:21 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Heather Christian

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:12:21 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Scott Archibald

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:57:00 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Steve Martin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:27:42 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Culhane

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:52:47 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Benjamin gammack

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:53:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Shannon

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 8:54:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stephen Serbun

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:04:19 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Roberta Beany

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:15:59 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Chase

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:17:02 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jessica Hill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:59:27 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Bob Bach

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 6:19:11 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew Rybarczyk

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 3:28:00 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Robert Stevens

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 5:36:51 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Luke DeWitt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:50:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Melissa Madonna

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:08:30 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Rebecca Taylor

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:50:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matt Barney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:56:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Schmidt

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:24:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alec Carter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:38:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Lent

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:33:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Logan Tyler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:13:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Snyder

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:32:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr William Taylor

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:15:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

mr Robert Philbrick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:31:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Corey Robbins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:57:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Seller

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:37:45 PM

You don't often get email from eric [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Lent

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:25:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jeff Sobel

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 11:47:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Ross

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:52:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nate Lynch

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:47:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Scott Kellner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:31:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Plaister

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:41:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Wall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:19:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nick Papas

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:16:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Corey Howard

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:22:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Richard Yuran

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:05:19 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Peninger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:14:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matt Govendo

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:00:13 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Griffin Cole

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:54:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Keegan McKnight

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:52:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rafael Cordero

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:59:19 PM

You don't often get email from andrew [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Scholes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:46:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mason Rose

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:55:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Evans

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:26:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Joshua Costlow

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:24:00 PM

You don't often get email from y [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Johnathan Patterson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 10:04:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Christopher Scott

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:50:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jason Boike

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:28:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Noah Voss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:29:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Steve Parkes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:26:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Schneider

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:26:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Pat O'Connor

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:21:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Aaron LaRock

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:21:14 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Will Chaffinch

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:17:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Bakos

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:46:27 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Sandy Weaver

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:46:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mrs Sandy Weaver

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:43:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Isaac Falcone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:45:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Brian Geurtze

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:31:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cline Chris

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:29:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Mastine

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:30:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Noah Hargrave

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:38:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Boldt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:16:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lukas Knowlden

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:15:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Evan Bell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:17:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Blauvelt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:15:33 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Canter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:04:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sherman Hazelton

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:08:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Daren Morgan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:17:41 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hunter Barnes Hunter Barnes

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:05:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Clifford

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:14:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Gaffney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:10:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Smith

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:13:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Evan McDonald

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:10:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Natalie Grice

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:05:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Valone

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:08:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Dimmick

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:37:43 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stephen Hark

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:49:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jackson Jones

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:10:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Saturday, September 7, 2024 12:33:26 AM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Karly Barra

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:06:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Schultz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:48:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

matthew mooney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:45:33 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr John Buda

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:47:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Johnny White

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:48:20 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ethan Yanda

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:38:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

justin barnes

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:47:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Bret Jeror

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:38:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Randy Randall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:46:07 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Chris Mcdonald

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:35:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric Wilson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:43:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Charles Young

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:43:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Personius

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:43:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Cummings

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:35:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Charleson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:48:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kevin Mott

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:38:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Retired Journeyman lineman Jeffrey Wakefield

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:00:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Hunt

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:51:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian Giacchetta

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:53:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cole Trim

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:33:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Beardsley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 9:02:50 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Austin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:34:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Evan Conway

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:26:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Donovan DeYear

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:26:08 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ajay Secore

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:34:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Golden

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:51:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ms Linda Duryea

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:52:05 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dean Joseph

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:28:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Justyn Iboling

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:54:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alex Gravlin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:56:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

William Westcott

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:24:07 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Riley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:25:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathaniel Williams

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:25:15 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Colin Lantry

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:22:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mat Brooks

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:08:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Cory Knapp

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:17:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sean Sean Tompkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:13:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Scott Gluck

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:16:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Journeyman Lineman #7183701 Eric Judson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:15:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Darrin Burnett

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:08:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Luden

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:10:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Laing

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:03:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rev Conner Knight

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:22:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Walker Connolly

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:06:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Steffen Johnson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:06:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nick Dovidio

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:20:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Gallup

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:17:19 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Dennis Lantry

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:06:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Riley Foley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:04:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Casey Hennekens

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:32:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Morgan Grice

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:01:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Austin Batchelor

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:58:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Clinton Cornell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:01:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Tony Miniri

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:49:22 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. William Boire

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:32:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Raymond Stevens

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:30:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Messinger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:47:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Korzelius

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:41:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Bryant Gleason

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:44:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Logan Williams

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:48:28 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Bates

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:46:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Stan Puffer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:46:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr James Lanahan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 8:29:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Alex Alotto

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:40:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Ashlaw John Ashlaw

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:32:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Wesley Kless

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:32:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cody DeOrdio

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:32:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Debusk

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:33:19 PM

You don't often get email from kllawrence199@gmail.com. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Kyle Lawrence
4381 county route 14
Madrid, NY
13660

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:34:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Josh Cade

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:36:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nelson Santiago

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:37:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Wesley Blanding

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:30:30 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Andrew Stowell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:39:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ryan Paulsen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:31:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Joseph Petralia

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:34:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Donald Shutter

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:30:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sonny Butski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:39:45 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Roy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:36:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Caleb Gardner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:30:41 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Reopell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:25:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dane Hedlund

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:28:24 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brittney Forshee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:30:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Randy Fletcher

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] NY

13624

From: [REDACTED] m
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:28:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Heath West

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Samuel Rydzewski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:04:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric Grice

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:52:31 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Parker Tiffany

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:05:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Reeder

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED] m
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:58:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Laxton

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:49:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Ayers

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:59:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mason Geens

37 East St

Nunda, NY

14517

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:56:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Michael Tarby

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:03:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Tritten

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lily Malloy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:54:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Taylor Richardson

[Redacted signature block]

From: chadsherin@gmail.com
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:50:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chad Sherin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:50:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ej Duffy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:04:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Connor Relf

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jesse veley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:39:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jared Dreythaler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:39:30 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jared Dreythaler

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:31:46 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kiel Davis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:29:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Frank

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:37:12 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mike Domagalski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:33:27 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Logan Dunn

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:28:47 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zachary Mcgee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:42:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Jonathan Scott

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:45:23 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Samuel McCumiskey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:45:38 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Perkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:47:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew Gillis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:45:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan Delurey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:49:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Troy Ellsworth

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:28:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ty Hernandez

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:47:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Travis Prell

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:24:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Brandon Atkins

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:19:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Elliott Zuppa

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:22:59 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joshua Newton

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:23:24 PM

You don't often get email from y [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Young

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:25:21 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Justin Flint

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:05:52 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Travis Woods

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:00:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Hunter Montieth

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:07:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Born

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:05:00 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John mausolf

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:01:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Timothy Dinnen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:08:07 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Amanda DeMauro

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:07:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael Born

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:14:39 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Fuss

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:25:08 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jared Laffin

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:56:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Andrew Stiles

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:20:36 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr. Liam Mallan

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:22:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shawn Coates

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:25:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr James Lensink

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:24:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Anthony Kemp

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:25:27 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patrick McGee

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:25:01 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Robert Hutman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:24:06 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jon Swasey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:20:40 PM

You don't often get email from a [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Morley
212 proctor ave
Ogdensburg , NY
13669

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:56:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joe Butts

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:55:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Colton Wilson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:50:49 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Travis Montgomery

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:19:17 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Cole Tracy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:51:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Armstrong

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:53:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Conor Mahoney

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:07:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Patrick Trumble

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:04:37 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric Grice

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:09:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Cody Marcheson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:59:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mason Geens

[Redacted signature]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:08:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Hill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:03:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Eric Tritten

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:10:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kaylea Dineen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:05:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Reeder

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:58:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Laxton

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:11:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Christopher Conners

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:07:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathanael Nimetz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:13:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Eschberger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:09:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Luke Meyer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:08:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mindy Bittner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:04:10 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Connor Relf

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:10:03 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kaylea Dineen

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:11:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] om. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Christopher Conners

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:13:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jacob Eschberger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:56:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Michael Tarby

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:54 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jesse veley

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:09:35 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Cody Marcheson

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:45:43 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan Delurey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:09:04 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Luke Meyer

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:15:32 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brandon Hankey

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Samuel Rydzewski

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:14:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Narhanuel Arner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:15:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Luke Reisman

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:47:26 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Matthew Gillis

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 6:55:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lily Malloy

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:15:40 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jarrett Riker

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:07:34 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Patrick Trumble

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:08:09 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kyle Hill

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:08:18 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mindy Bittner

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:07:51 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nathanael Nimetz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:59:57 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Eric Myers

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:56:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

James Jones

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:56:02 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Dylan Connor

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:18:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ethan Babowicz

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:16:56 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr David Passino

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:16:42 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jack Kruger

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:16:25 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] m. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mr Nicholas DeCelles

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 7:16:11 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Chris Coates

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:47:48 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Troy phillips Phillips

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:46:19 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Ian Lyons

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:45:53 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jordan Spaulding

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:44:58 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Seth Crossett

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:44:44 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Michael DeMauro

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:53:29 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED]. Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Larry Randall

[Redacted signature block]

From: [REDACTED]
To: labor.sm.apprenticeship.training
Subject: RE: Comments on Proposed Electrical Outside Line Worker Apprenticeship Program
Date: Friday, September 6, 2024 5:48:16 PM

You don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

ATTENTION: This email came from an external source. Do not open attachments or click on links from unknown senders or unexpected emails.

[REDACTED]

Dear Apprenticeship and Training Council,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you today regarding the application that was submitted by Power and Construction Group to become a sponsor of the outside electrical line worker apprenticeship program. As a worker in the outside electrical industry, I strongly oppose this contractor be given this status. I work throughout New York. I have never witnessed this contractor performing the setting of towers and poles, establishing work positions for maintenance and repairing overhead distribution or transmission lines, stringing new wire or maintaining old wire, installing and maintaining insulators, or installing and maintaining transformers and other equipment. These tasks are absolutely necessary in order to become a Journeyman Lineman. The mentioned tasks are performed daily in the outside electrical industry, and I can attest it's a very demanding job. More importantly, it is an extremely "dangerous" job.

It is my professional opinion that if this contractor becomes a sponsor of this program, it will put their lives at risk as well as the public's. It would be an extreme disservice to those that have provided, and to those that continue to provide safe energy to consumers in New York. The on-the-job training that is required for an apprentice to graduate from this program to gain Journeyman status is extensive. The responsibilities of a qualified Journeyman Lineman to oversee an apprentice and to make sure that he or she is safe every day as well as to make sure they receive the proper training they signed up for is demanding and stressful. It is extremely important this training is correct and meets the DOL's requirements because one day they will have the responsibilities of training apprentices.

I respectfully request the DOL perform an extensive review of this contractor. This should include on-the-job visits. I believe that you will find that this contractor does not perform the work or have the qualified personnel to train an apprentice to become a safe, efficient and qualified Journeyman Lineman. I understand that apprenticeship

programs are very important to the DOL, and it is to me as well. I believe that granting status to any contractor that is only doing it for financial reasons such as being able to pay apprenticeship wages is unacceptable and simply wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Justen LaRock

[Redacted signature block]